

1 Abstract of the Disclosure

2 A system for mounting an engine to a frame in a manner to permit measurement
3 of its torque by a transducer which is isolated from loads induced by installation 4 misalignments, frame deflections and acceleration induced forces. One embodiment of 5 the system is compatible with widely used automotive resilient elastic engine mounts 6 without engine or frame modifications.